Leap Year's Extra Day Celebrated To-morrow at Wanamaker's

Interest will be two-fold The "Seven Ages of Women" Exhibition supplies ten artistic tableaux. And tomorrow the Rotunda of the Old Building provides another, told of below, more definitely appropriate to the day. Then Leap Year provides tomorrow an EXTRA RED LETTER DAY of extraordinary merchandise offerings, and prolongs your chance to secure some of the remarkable February Furniture at half price. DON'T MISS WANAMAKER'S TOMORROW.

Woman's Proposal

Man at Her Mercy

Every woman knowsand every man, too, if he would admit it-that it is perfectly fit and proper, by good form and long custom, for woman to select her own mate, and once every four years to propose to the real owner of her heart, instead of having to select only from the half-dozen men who happen to propose to her.

Leap Year breaks the manacles of convention.

But when she proposes, and brutal man denies her suit, he cannot escape by merely saying "No." The dismissed fair one must always receive the forieit of a silk dress as balm for the wounded heart. Men cannot be allowed to go scot iree after being placed on a pedestal and worshipped and wooed for a whole year.

So in the Rotunda tomorrow you will see "Man at Woman's mercy," tacing the problem that he must solve.
